Waveland adopts tough drainage ordinance; violators may be fined up to $1,000 plus costs

BY RICHARD MEEK

Waveland home owners who fill in those unsightly drainage ditches fronting their property, or use undersized culverts, will soon face up to $1,000 in fines plus other costs.

The Waveland Board of Aldermen on Tuesday adopted an ordinance that specifies "drainage policies, permits, fees, abatement, enforcement and fines." The ordinance prohibits "an alteration which restricts, inhibits, or otherwise diminishes the flow capability of any drainage way contrary to the public interest," including the closing of a drainage way.

Waveland Mayor John Mason said the ordinance should "put some teeth" in helping the city control the flooding which plagues the city during heavy rains. Mason said many residents are either filling in the ditches, or using small culverts, which causes water to back up in the streets, neighbors' yards or even into homes.

"There's no way to control (the violations) now," Mason said.

The ordinance mandates that anyone planning "drainage alterations" must bring the plans to the city, where they will be evaluated for approval.

According to the new law, driveway culverts "shall be sized for a minimum two-year storm frequency," with a minimum runoff coefficient of 0.5. The minimum culvert size shall be 15 inches, the ordinance states.

Additionally, the city will be allowed to remove and replace "undersized culverts" at the expense of the property owner. The ordinance goes on to say that the owner will be required to "bear the entire cost of the repairs to the owner's driveway."

The city will also be issuing two permits — independent and adjunct. The independent permit is for a proposed drainage alteration.

The adjunct permit will allow an application to be filed in connection with a building permit or "application of subdivision approval."

Violators will be cited by the Public Works Director and be granted a "reasonable period of time" to remedy the problem. Failure to do so will result in the city taking appropriate action and billing the owner.

Violators may also be fined up to $1,000 plus the restoration costs, by City Court.

In other action, the board passed a resolution that says the city will address energy efficient features during housing rehabilitations, such as proper insulation and double-pane windows.

In conjunction, a resolution was passed setting minimum standards for doing business with minority-owned and women-owned businesses. The resolution states that at least 15 percent of business during rehab projects utilizing federal funds be conducted with minority-owned businesses and seven percent with women-owned businesses.

Jeff Loftus of Gulf Regional Planning said the resolutions will help the city earn points during its current application process with the Federal government. Loftus is handling the city's application for a $350,000 Housing and Urban Development grant. If awarded, the city will be able to aid low-income home owners in rehabilitation of their homes.

The board also: — Approved Ty Bouma's application to begin a limousine service in Waveland. Police Chief Jimmy Varnell said Bouma had met all of the city's requirements.

According to his application, Bouma plans to shuttle residents living in Waveland and working in New Orleans back and forth to work. Also, his service will be available for high school proms and other dances.

— Changed cellular phone service to Coastal Cellular. The city had been contracted with Cellular South, but Ward 2 board member Jay Fleuriet is an agent of Cellular South. Although Fleuriet would have received no remuneration from a contract renewal, the State Ethics Committee ruled the city could not do business with Cellular South, according to Mason. Fleuriet abstained in the voting.

Murphy announces for sheriff

Ray Murphy of Bay St. Louis has announced his candidacy for sheriff of Hancock County in the August Republican Primary.

Due to the recent and future growth of our community, now is the time for Hancock County to elect a new sheriff who has a proven record in law enforcement, leadership and management."

As sheriff, Murphy's goals and issues to be addressed include a juvenile crime detention facility, increased patrols, increased personnel, upgraded communications, increased educational requirements, competitive salary benefits, implementation of a drug, alcohol and gang awareness program in schools, address problems of 911 and provide opportunities for advancement.

Ray Murphy

"I know with my prior experience and qualifications I will provide Hancock County with the most professional, effective and respected law enforcement agency in the state," Murphy added.

CUEVAS' QUOTES

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Don't forget the Hancock County Exchange Club's Annual Fun Rais'n Auction Friday night. The auction is to be held at the Civic Center, Longfellow Drive.

Items to be auctioned may be viewed starting at 6:30 p.m. with the auction set to start at 7:15 p.m.

It is my understanding that Exchange Club members have gathered a wide variety of items to be auctioned off Friday night.

There will also be a silent auction for numerous items.

So, who knows, they may just have that 'thing' you have been looking for a very long time, and you could be the high bidder.

Auctioneer John Thomas of Pascagoula will even be offering celebrity items at the auction.

Sue Donnelly is the Exchange Club's auction chairperson this year.

I hope to see you at the Exchange Club's auction Friday night.

There will be a benefit rummage sale on Saturday, May 6, 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. at American Legion Post 77, Coleman Avenue, Waveland.

The benefit sale will be conducted by LeFemmes Cabane 432 for the organization's nurses training scholarship.

The scholarship is given through Pearl River Community College.

If you have any item you may want to donate for the rummage sale, contact Amelia Killeen, 467-0589, or Anna Brehm, 467-1377.

LeFemmes Cabane is the auxiliary of the 40/8 Voiture 432.

Lou Wilkerson, club secretary-treasurer, said there will be hot dogs, baked goods and refreshments available.

Hancock County Criminal Investigator Glen Strong suggested that I may want to advise 17-year-olds of changes in state laws involving their age group.

The investigator said 17-year-olds who commit a felony are now treated as an adult.

In other words, they go before a grand jury, and if indicted appear before a Circuit Court judge, and if convicted to time have do it at the big house, Parchman. Thought I would let you know.

On Monday and Tuesday of this week the Mississippi Department of Tourism held a Fam Tour of Hancock County and West Harrison County.

It is a tour that familiarizes hostesses from Mississippi Welcome Centers across the state with the many attractions offered.

Rosie Herron, director of Mississippi Welcome Centers was accompanied by a group of 30 plus hostesses, who were given a walking tour of Bay St. Louis by Pat Cuculli; a historic presentation by Charles Gray, president of the Hancock County Historical Society; and a tour of the John C. Stennis Space Center.

The group of visitors was also given a trolley ride of Bay St. Louis and greeted by Mayor Eddie Favre.

Tourism is very important and our hostesses at the Mississippi Welcome Center as they are the first to see many of our visitors.

Cindy Vernon of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce helped coordinate the visit, and made arrangements as assistance was received from several businesses.

Rooms for the visitors were provided by the Waveland Resort Inn, Key West Inn, Casino Magic Inn, and Days Inn, Pass Christian.

A welcome was given by Waveland Mayor John Mason as the hostesses were treated to a wine and cheese party by Monte Luffey, owner of the Days Inn in Pass Christian.

A lunch buffet was provided by Casino Magic and a dinner buffet at Jubilee.

I got the feeling the hostesses really enjoyed our hospitality and will have some very good words to say about Hancock County and West Harrison County.

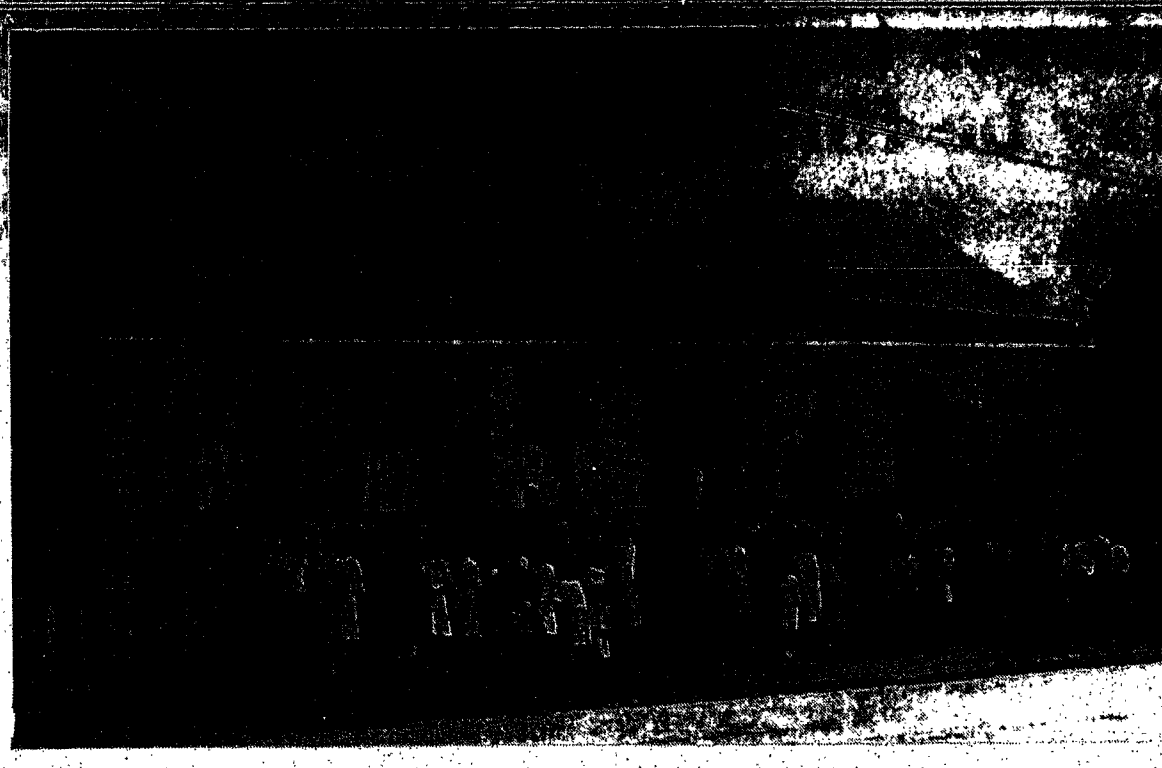

I am sure there are others who made contributions for the Welcome Center hostesses' visit, and I want to thank them and everyone else for their assistance.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Reader doesn't feel meeting pitted Chamber against T&G

To the Editor:

Having attended the meeting at the Jubilee Casino, graciously hosted by Mr. Kingsbury, I must admit I did not find "the controversy that pits the T&G against the Chamber" you have written about in your article. I did note some disagreement on the financial approach for the support services required by a full-time director of tourism.

I found that everyone agreed on:

— The need to hire a full-time director of tourism.

— The director needs to answer to a board.

— Everyone wants to promote tourism in Hancock County.

— The need to focus on drawing tourism and other businesses into the community.

— That the tourists don't know what we have to offer and they want to see our towns and the Gulf.

— Some things are being duplicated and other things are falling through the cracks.

— The fact that Hancock County has tremendous resources to play on.

— The food was great.

I found the areas of controversy to be solely in the application of funds for the support services needed and the board the director of tourism was to answer to.

Waveland Mayor John Mason said it best. "The mood of the country in government is consolidation, not more and more bureaucracy. We don't need duplication." This merely reiterated the chamber's basic concerns.

As a business person I would hate to know I had no input as to the spending of my tax dollar. I think that is called taxation without representation. I also know any business is only as good as its director, and for our T&G to help us flourish we need a director with the expertise and the time to promote our county.

I think no matter whom we hire with our funds, they will have to get to know us. Just as we will have to get to know and trust our new director.

What better way to get to know someone than to work with them. What better way for our new director to get to know us than to come in under wing of an established commission.

In my opinion this board should be made up of already established business organizations and a few justifiable extras, the North Hancock Business Association, the Diamondhead Business Association, the Chamber of Commerce, the Port & Harbor Commission, etc. This would allow our organizations to grow with the T&G and the T&G to grow with us.

Where do you think you would get the "biggest bang for your buck"? Let's not pay twice for those support services at this time.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Lauly Peterson

Reader feels leash law needed in Hancock

To the Editor:

I will be unable to attend the public hearing regarding a leash law in Hancock County, but would like to make some comments to the board of supervisors.

Hancock County must pass a leash law for the following reasons:

— Human beings should have the right to be able to walk down a county road, or on their own private property, without the fear of being attacked by a dog. I have to "arm" myself for battle when I go for a walk because of all the dogs running around. I have been chased, nipped and completely terrified by some of these animals. Thankfully, I have not yet been bitten.

— My pets need protection, too. Our cat of more than 16 years was recently attacked and killed by my neighbor's three dogs which run loose all over the neighborhood. Our cat has never left our property, and she has never bothered anyone. Where are my rights as a property owner? They were on my property.

— And lastly, for the sake of those poor animals running loose. There are several that just sit in the middle of the street every morning. One of these dogs someone who just doesn't care is going to plow them down. How can owner's love a pet and not want to keep it safe?

If persons want pets, then I think they should provide the proper housing and care for them. They should not be let loose to bother other people and their property, plus carrying garbage all over from overturned cans.

I not only beg you to adopt a leash law for Hancock County, but as a property owner, I demand it, because it's the right thing to do for all of us.

FROM THE SENATE

By Senator
Trent Lott

After Oklahoma City

All Americans were horrified at what we saw following the bombing of the federal building in Oklahoma City. We now are examining what we can do to prevent such catastrophes and without proper judicial review. We do not in our haste want to take actions which could lead to the abuse of basic individual civil liberties.

As a community we all share a heartfelt sorrow at seeing the pain and suffering of the victims and their families. It is a domestic law enforcement area. Again, there is the potential for a well-intentioned idea to get out of hand in actual practice.

President Clinton is proposing some anti-terrorist actions with which I can agree, including the hiring of approximately 1,000 new law enforcement personnel to investigate, deter, and prosecute terrorist activity.

I also agree with him that we should study the possibility of tagging explosive materials for the purpose of their later identification and detection if they were used in a terrorist activity. We also should study whether common chemicals used to manufacture explosives can be rendered inert for use in explosives.

I will be involved in the development of any anti-terrorism legislation which is taken up by the Senate. The Congress and the President need to come up with something that is responsible while increasing our ability to fight terrorism in America. We should not overreact but instead make very certain that we do it right.

Senator Lott welcomes any questions and/or comments about this column. Please write to: Senator Trent Lott, 487 Russell Building, Washington, D.C. 20510 (Attention: Press Office).

Bay-Waveland signs Laidlaw contract

BY RICHARD MEER
The Bay-Waveland School Board is officially out of the transportation business after signing a contract for a private company to bus the system's students.

Board officials signed a contract with Laidlaw, Inc., in a special meeting on Tuesday. The contract must still be approved by the state Board of Education, but Bay-Waveland Superintendent Paul Tisdale said he expects that to be a formality.

"We are pleased to sign the contract," Tisdale said. "We are in the education business, and every day that becomes more complex."

"It will be nice to devote more time and energy on education, rather than on other aspects." The contract is for two years, with two one-year options, according to Tisdale. The board will pay Laidlaw $400,000 per year, which includes some field trips. Extracurricular and evening activities are extra.

The system will continue to operate on a two-tier system. During negotiations, Laidlaw proposed a three-tier system that would have cost $20,000 less, but that proposal sparked strong opposition from parents.

The contract does create an uncertain future for the system's 20 bus drivers. Tisdale said Laidlaw representatives will meet with the drivers "in the next seven to 10 days" to present possible options.

Tisdale said about 75 percent of the district's drivers are employed elsewhere in the system. Laidlaw officials have indicated the drivers will have to make a decision whether to drive for Laidlaw or remain in the school system. Company officials have also said they would like to retain the system's current drivers.

"The drivers have to decide whether they want to work for the district or for Laidlaw," Tisdale said.

The company has also submitted a bid of $408,000 to buy the district's fleet of 19 busses, according to Billy Rhodes, Director of Transportation and Maintenance for the Bay-Waveland schools. Rhodes said the system will advertise for bids for the fleet, and accept the highest bid.

Part of the proceeds will be utilized to purchase two new busses, which will be used to transport athletic teams and for other activities. The original plan called for the school system to retain two busses.

However, Tisdale said if the busses were retained, the Laidlaw bid for the fleet would have dropped $70,000, to $338,000.

The price of a new bus, Rhodes said, is approximately $36,000. Rhodes said, depending on how it is equipped. In essence, the school system will be purchasing two new busses for under $2,000, according to both Tisdale and Rhodes.

A Gulfport resident was arrested Saturday and charged with forgery involving the passing of altered bills in the area.

Hancock County Criminal Investigator George Burleson said, "Robert Parker Jr., 39, 4107 Castille Drive, Gulfport was arrested on Saturday for allegedly passing altered bills at a Diamondhead Bank and was caught earlier on film."

Burleson said he had just gotten on the case a week ago and the suspect will probably face other charges as the U.S. Secret Service is also involved in the case.

The case involved the passing of $2 bills that had been converted to $20s, $50s and $100s.

The bills original corners were replaced with those of high denominations and were passed at banks and convenience stores.

The bills were circulated from Mobile to New Orleans, Burleson said.

Crosby was lodged in the Hancock County Jail with a bond of $100,000. Burleson said, more arrests were expected.

Casino

...the city would push Casino Magic's plan to build a 69-car lot at Washington Street in Bay St. Louis. The city also would push the GCA property adjoining Casino Magic's.

Rafferty said allowing only one casino in town is creation of a monopoly.

"The day you support just one industry, you're going to get sued," said Rafferty Monday. "That won't fly" legally, he said of the monopoly approach.

Council member Tad Black shot back at Rafferty that the attorney's position represents only one opinion.

"Yes, my legal opinion," responded Rafferty.

Irony abounded as the debate continued. Rafferty agreed with opponents of GCA's development that the pre-annexation agreement is non-binding at this point on the city as well as the developers.

The pre-annexation agreement, however, is the only control the city has in place on what takes place in Casino Magic's development as well as on GCA's property. The territory, developed and undeveloped, will remain unincorporated until the city finally adopts a comprehensive plan that will allow them to proceed with zoning.

With several members of council apparently gleeful over hearing that the pre-annexation agreement is virtually meaningless, council member James Rutherford balked that all but one member of council had signed the document promising to cooperate with casino development efforts at Cedar Point.

Rutherford, Thrifflay and council members Charles Scianna and Thomas Favre signed the 1992 agreement. Councilman Tad Black was elected afterwards.

Tuesday, Rutherford said while others who signed the document now want to disregard it, he's sticking to the pledge he made in that document. The pre-annexation agreement may not hold water, said Rutherford, "but with me, my signature holds water."

Favre said city officials repeatedly have assured potential developers that the city will honor the pre-annexation agreement.

"Our intentions were reiterated time after time after time," said the mayor. "Not once has the council said we will not honor it."

He and attorney John Scaife also cautioned council not to over-simplify the issue -- and its complexity became obvious Tuesday night.

"It's an over-simplification to say this pre-annexation agreement is not binding so we can do anything we want. I don't think that's the case," said Scaife. Rafferty warned that not providing an alternative casino site to that of Casino Magic's within the city limits leaves the courtroom door wide open -- especially for anyone who's proposed another casino.

Such is the case, he said, with a casino that was proposed at the foot of Main Street over a year ago by the Murphy family. Since that proposal was made formally, he said, the city should "breathe very carefully ... We need to be careful here," he said, pointing to the Murphy's property on the map.

Toward the end of the evening's debate, Thrifflay said council members didn't mean to bypass the normal, required course of adoption for the proposed land use plan -- it has to go to the city's Planning and Zoning Commission for action and public hearings before council can take action on it.

He said once Fox has been advised of council's feeling on the matter, she could return to council with alternatives to consider.

More likely, the document will head to the Planning and Zoning Commission for action first, including a public hearing. After that, the commission will make its recommendations and forward the document back to council for action.

Board Attorney Gerald Gex said he would draft an ordinance covering the unincorporated area south of the interstate, extending to the beach. The cities of Waveland and Bay St. Louis already have leash laws in place.

In other action Monday, the board backed off from imminent plans to build a 69-car parking lot extending between Terrace Avenue and Coleman Boulevard in Waveland.

The action came after a marathon, last-minute protest of the project by Beach Boulevard residents.

Board members said since they'd had no complaints over a similar project at Washington Street in Bay St. Louis, they would proceed to call for bids on that construction and drop the Waveland project, at least temporarily.

Supervisors had plans drawn up for both facilities, including comfort stations, to accommodate the influx of tourists and beach-goers drawn to the newly refurbished beachfront.

Engineer William Mitchell said he'd tried to expedite the projects to have the parking in place by the summer season -- plans and specifications have been drawn and bids could be opened by early June, he told the board.

In the end, the board agreed to advertise only a 69-car lot at Washington Street in Bay St. Louis. They also told Mitchell to study creating a number of small parking areas in the Waveland area, rather than one massive one.

John Handsboro said the group of Waveland citizens who'd just learned about the project had major reservations about it. Their prime concern, he said, is the thought of having a parking lot vista from their residences, instead of a beach.

The parking lot, he said, would lure a boom-box crowd of noisy, littering beach-goers, and a stream of recreational vehicles that would literally camp out indefinitely.

His list of concerns painted an awesome picture: massive amounts of litter, a string of coolers containing beer and liquor, skateboarders and go-carts buzzing around on the asphalt.

Drug deals, he said, could be accomplished virtually out of sight of police. Unauthorized bonfires would light up the night. Fireworks refuse would be concentrated in a small area of the Gulf.

Mitchell said the project's main point was to improve safety along the beachway -- keeping children from having to dart

Work resumes on Hwy. 603

"Construction on the project to widen Highway 603 is currently underway and is expected to be completed November 1995," Southern District Commissioner Ronnie Shows said Tuesday. Commissioner Shows made the statement at a meeting called by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Executive Committee, which includes him, representatives from the Department of Transportation, governor's office, local legislators and members of the North Hancock Business Association.

The new date was set after negotiations with the contractor on the four-laning of Highway 603 from Highway 90 to Stennis Airport Road. The project was originally scheduled for a July 1994 completion.

The project is now 65% complete and Shows added, "The completion date could be delayed in the event of bad weather." The commissioner said, "We regret any inconveniences the construction and delays may have caused the traveling public and appreciate their patience."

The complete project also includes the resurfacing of the current two lanes of Highway 603 in the construction area, Shows said.

across Beach Boulevard traffic to get from the only parking that's now available on the side of the road.

Handsboro said that could be accomplished by creating several small parking bays, distributed along the five-mile beachfront. Mitchell said that option would be more expensive, and probably would result in having fewer new parking slots available.

Handsboro, meanwhile also objected to county plans to build a comfort station at the foot of Coleman Avenue on the beach. That facility should be put on land, he said, in a commercially-zoned area.

Mitchell said he'd hoped to call for bids on the parking projects first, and see how much money the county would have to invest in comfort stations as a second phase.

While supervisors at first appeared ready to stick with their original plans, Handsboro and other speakers swayed them.

the travel.

Two members of council questioned the good that such a trip would do for the city: Tad

Black and James Thrifflay. Both abstained from voting. Since one member of council wasn't at that meeting, the two votes in favor of the trip, by Thomas Favre and Charles Scianna, weren't enough. News of the matter prompted a number of offers by citizens and businesses to chip in -- Domino's Pizza has put out fliers in support of the trade mission travel and is promising to donate a percentage of its receipts today to help pay the expenses.

Council reversed its actions Tuesday night upon a motion by council member James Rutherford, who was not present at the last meeting. Rutherford, Scianna and Favre voted to have the city foot the bill. Thrifflay voted no, Black abstained. The mayor said thanks, but no thanks.

A BaySide resident was charged with capital rape Sunday involving an eight-year-old girl, Hancock Criminal Investigator Glen Strong said.

Strong said, "Alex M. Braham, 17, BaySide Park, was charged with the alleged rape of a eight-year-old girl. The incident is alleged to have occurred in the water off the Clermont Harbor area Sunday."

Braham was arrested Sunday and is lodged in the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility in lieu of a $50,000 bond.

Hancock County School Board keeps attorney busy over land issues

BY TRACI BONNEY
The Hancock County School Board is keeping its attorney busy.

In his report to the school board Monday, attorney Stephen Benvenutti said assistant superintendent Eddie Danzey had sent him a "nice letter" Friday with quite a few tasks listed. He apologized for not having the list completed for the Monday meeting, but explained that he didn't want to work over the weekend.

He then went on to address several matters that he had dealt with, including two situations concerning 16th Section land.

PICAYUNE SCHOOL DISTRICT

The Hancock County School District is in the process of trying to reclaim a large portion of 16th Section land in the NASA buffer zone near Pearl River County. Sixteenth Section land is land designated by the state to be used for purposes proposed by the school district and approved by the state. The land cannot be sold.

The land is generally used for timber sales, and land and mineral leases.

In 1957, the Hancock County and Picayune school districts negotiated a trade in which Hancock County gave several parcels of 16th Section land to the Picayune district, in exchange for which that district provided education for the students who lived in that area. Transporting those students to Hancock schools would not have been cost-effective at that time, Benvenutti reminded the board, so the exchange was made.

However, in 1961 that section of land fell into the NASA buffer zone jurisdiction, and the students who lived there moved out.

Now, according to superintendent Myrna Bourgeois, most of the students who still live in the northwest part of Hancock County — but in the Picayune school district because of the 1957 negotiation — attend Hancock County schools and pay out-of-district tuition, even though the school taxes from their parents' car tags go to Hancock County schools.

Bourgeois said the land in question is worth approximately $80,000 a year in school taxes. In addition, a timber sale will mean more dollars for the school district that holds the land.

"I would hope that we'll be able to get the land back," she said.

Benvenutti said there are two ways to force an action in the matter. Either the residents who are being affected by this situation can petition for the land to be given back to the Hancock County school district, or the school board can ask for local and private legislation from the state legislature.

The petition option is less likely to produce any action, Benvenutti noted. Board member Tony Caston concurred.

Benvenutti said there are two petitions on the counter. One is for giving the land back to Hancock County; the other is against it, he said with a wry grin. "I'm just letting both of them sit on the counter. I'm not touching this one."

Benvenutti said going to the legislature also is a slim chance, but may be the better option of the two. "One of the 122 legislators we have up there, all but 119 have a dog in this hunt," he quipped. "I'm just letting both of them sit on the counter. I'm not touching this one."

Benvenutti said he never knew some of them may be facing similar problems in their districts. If that's the case, if they do have a dog in this hunt, they might just come out and take a hand in this matter.

Bourgeois and some of the board members acknowledged that they know some of the other legislators are indeed facing similar situations back home. The board discussed the possibility of a local and private bill, but no firm decisions were made, other than to let Benvenutti keep working on the matter.

BUCCANEER PARK

The other 16th Section matter concerns Buccaneer State Park. Benvenutti explained that in 1972, the school district entered a 99-year, non-negotiable lease with the State Park Commission for the 326 acres that now is Buccaneer State Park.

At the time, he said, a fair market value was established to determine the lease amount. However, that value is far below today's fair market value on the land, even without any improvements that have been made. The park currently pays $2,400 per year, which is split between the Hancock County and Bay-Waveland school districts, according to Garland Cuevas, financial director of the Bay-Waveland School District.

In recent years, a state ruling has given school districts the legal right to break and renegotiate a lease if the lease is so long and the amount so low that it constitutes a donation of public lands. The problem, according to Benvenutti, is that the State Park Commission doesn't recognize the school district's right to cancel the lease.

"They said they were given fair market value, that's what they're paying, and they won't negotiate with us," Benvenutti said.

He added that former school board attorney Joseph "Jody" Gex wrote to the state Attorney General's office in 1993 for an opinion as to whether the school district could break its lease with a state agency and renegotiate the lease price. Benvenutti said the AG's opinion skirted the issue entirely.

So, he added, he will write and ask the Attorney General's office for a specific opinion as to whether the ruling about the lease renegotiation applies to public entities such as the State Park Commission, or whether it deals only with private entities and individuals.

Board member Larry Peterson asked if the board could authorize Benvenutti to file a lawsuit against the park commission if the AG's office does not give him a satisfactory answer. Benvenutti assured Peterson that he will take action if he isn't satisfied with the AG's reply.

OTHER MATTERS

The 16th Section land matters were discussed at the end of the meeting, when the board attorney usually gives his report. Before that, the board approved the minutes from the meetings on March 20, April 3, 12 and 17; spent about an hour in executive session dealing with student and personnel matters; and approved 35 of the 37 consent agenda items.

The two items not approved were a resolution to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors for the building to house the superintendent's office, and the acceptance of an insurance settlement for water damage at Gulfview Elementary School.

The board didn't act on either item. Supervisor board attorney Gerald Gex, according to Benvenutti, had said the school board's minutes — which reflected their agreement to accept the supervisors' decision on a new office building — was sufficient for the supervisors. So, the school board felt it unnecessary to pass a resolution.

As for the insurance settlement, Benvenutti said the figure quoted was not, from the impression he got, a bottom line figure. So, the board decided further negotiations were in order.

The items that were approved included personnel, insurance, food services, bid acceptance and advertisement, contract payment, equipment purchase, and school activity matters, as well as the sale of 46 trees and advertisement for the sale of the remaining trees in Section 16-5-14.

The school board set a personnel appeal hearing for Thursday, May 11, 5:30 p.m., in the Board of Supervisors meeting room, then recessed until that date.

Former commissioner pleads guilty to charges

Former Hancock County election commissioner John V. Ladner has pleaded guilty to four incidents of sexual battery involving underage girls.

Ladner, 63, of 21144 John V. Ladner Rd., admitted he had abused two girls who were 8 and 10 at the time of his arrest. He said he had been abusing the girls for nearly three years before one of the girls reported the incidents to her teacher.

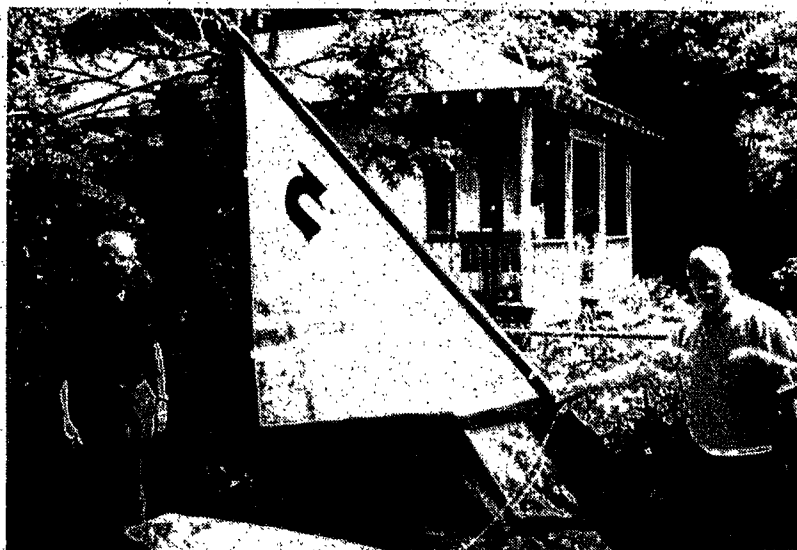

A 20-year prison sentence for Ladner is being recommended by Assistant District Attorney Charles Wood. However, defense attorney Charles Nacaise has requested a sentencing hearing, pleading that his client is suffering from health problems.

A hearing has been set for June 2. Ladner is free on a $100,000 bail until sentencing.

Nacaise said Ladner is helping to pay for therapy for the girls. Ladner is also undergoing therapy.

Ladner was elected the District 3 representative on the Hancock County Election Commission in 1980 but was defeated in a re-election bid four years later.

Martial Arts Expo

Elvis and the Martial Arts? The combination may sound unlikely, but according to American Superstars' Garry Wesley, who performs a tribute to Elvis in the long-running show, the King of Rock 'n' Roll had more than a passing interest in it — as does Wesley himself. So when local martial arts schools and organizations needed a financial boost, Wesley stepped in to assist them in the creation of a fundraising martial arts expo.

"Martial arts have always interested me," says Wesley. "It teaches you self-discipline and it gives you confidence in your body. And it helps keep you in shape for all those hard-rockin' Elvis numbers."

The Palace was immediately responsive to Wesley's suggestion that the casino host the expo.

"We had actually been thinking about having a martial arts event when Garry brought us the idea for the Expo," says Barry Regula of the casino's marketing department.

"We particularly liked this idea because it gives something back to the community. All the money raised by the event will go back into the Martial Arts schools and organizations."

The Palace Casino Martial Arts Expo will be in the Royal Palladium Showroom May 7 at 4 p.m. A $5 donation per admission is requested.

The Expo will feature Combat Academy, Universal Kempo of Karate, American Sholin Kung Fu and Aikiyama Ryu Jujitsu. The show will end with a special appearance by Garry Wesley, performing as Elvis.

"It's a fun way to demonstrate the broad appeal Martial Arts have," says Wesley. "Sort of a Martial Arts tribute by one of its biggest fans, Elvis."

Isle of Capri

Golf Classic

The Isle of Capri Crowne Plaza Resort in Biloxi announced recently that it will host the Anthony Darte Golf Classic, a benefit tournament featuring golf pro Lee Trevino for the second year in a row.

"I'm very excited to be back on the beautiful Mississippi Gulf Coast and to participate in the Anthony Darte Golf Classic," said Trevino.

The tournament will be held May 22 at Sunkist Country Club in Biloxi. Registration will be $110 and includes green and shared cart fees, preferred seating at the Lee Trevino golf clinic, complimentary player and guest entry to two tournament receptions at the Isle of Capri as well as an autographed team photo with Trevino.

The format will consist of a four-man scramble, select shot with a handicapped system consisting of 50 percent of a player's handicap and 10 percent of the remaining team member's handicap.

There will be a double shotgun start at 7 a.m. and 1 p.m. and three flights. Each member of the first place team will receive an Anthony Darte Golf Classic-Isle of Capri Casino golf bag.

All tournament entry fees will be administered by the Gulf Coast Community Foundation and will establish the Anthony Darte Endowment Fund to assist physically and mentally challenged residents of Harrison County.

The tournament was created as a fund-raising effort to assist the family of the late Anthony Darte, an executive host for the Isle and local golfer who passed away last year after a prolonged illness.

Entry forms are available at area golf courses or by calling 601-435-5400. Special observer passes will be available for $10 and include the Lee Trevino golf clinic and limited access to the golf course during the tournament.

Boys Town director

Father Val J. Peter, national executive director of Boys Town, was recently treated to a seafood reception at the Waveland home of Tommy and Linda Kidd. The dinner was arranged when Waveland Mayor John Mason learned that Father Peter was scheduled to be in New Orleans for a fund raising event for the Boys Town Shelter there. Mason, a graduate of Boys Town, suggested that Father Peter might like to visit Waveland for a relaxed meal, meet a few local people and get away from the crowds in the city.

Area lawyers visit class during Law Week

What do area lawyers and students at Hancock County School for Success, Bay Middle School and Bay High School have in common?

They will be participating in A Lawyer in Every Mississippi Classroom Program during annual Law Week May 1-7. More than 350 lawyers will use this program as an opportunity to visit with students in their community and convey the value and values of our legal system.

Hancock County lawyers participating include G. Gerald Cruthird, Edwin R. Ling, John H. Crouch, Elise E. Sims and Brehm Bell.

The program is sponsored by

The Mississippi Bar Young Lawyers Division and has offered to place a lawyer in every Mississippi classroom which so desires.

This year's Law Week theme, E Pluribus Unum, has been stamped on all American coins for more than a century. To our nation's founders, this phrase meant that a new nation had been created out of many colonies whose populations reflected different people from different countries.

Today, the phrase has heightened meaning — that while America has grown to represent a collection of different cultures, ethnic groups, regions and religions, we remain one nation under law.

"Having lawyers visit children's classrooms benefit all involved," said Paul Roberts, chairman of the Mississippi Bar Young Lawyers Division A Lawyer in Every Mississippi Classroom Committee.

"The lawyers get a chance to see how children perceive the law and the children have the chance to see how lawyers can benefit society and order through 'the rule of the law'."

Diamondhead Lions install officers

A new president for the Lions Club of Diamondhead, only the second since its formation, was installed at a dinner meeting Tuesday, May 2 at the Diamondhead Baptist Church Fellowship Hall.

The new president, O. C. (Jim) Gressett, succeeds Howard Peters, who has served the club as president since its founding in March of 1993. Both are residents of the Diamondhead community.

Other officers are Conrad Bourgeois, first vice president; Dennis Dowell, second vice president; Ralph (Bob) Hanson, third vice president; Betty Peters, secretary; and Betty Melton, treasurer.

Gressett, a retired naval officer, will assume the duties of his new office in July. The Lions, one of the most active service clubs in Hancock County, are best known for their work for the blind and others with poor eyesight.

Information about membership and its activities are available from Gressett by calling 255-3611, or by writing to the Diamondhead Lions Club, Box 6021, Diamondhead, MS 39525-6021.

First Baptist Easter services

The First Baptist Church of Waveland observed Easter Sunday with a special worship service.

The church, which has been newly organized this past year under the leadership of Pastor Jodie H. Cothen, welcomed 90 people to the 11 a.m. Easter service.

The altar was adorned with bouquets of spring flowers and Easter lilies. The service opened with the ordinance of baptism conducted by Pastor Cothen. Special music was provided by guest singers, Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Shetter of Picayune and Dee Barnett, who is the church's music director.

Pastor Cothen then led the congregation in the observance of the Lord's Supper.

Waveland First Baptist Church is a monthly contributor to the Hancock County Food Pantry.

SSC finishes second in track finals

SSC, Bay High qualify runners for South State

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
The Division 8 Class 4A track and field meet was held Monday, April 24 and Thursday, April 27.

Several area teams and runners fared very well against the competition and qualified for the South State meet to be held this Saturday, May 6, in Amite County.

The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws placed second overall in the meet as a team and were in contention for the title through the last event of the meet. The d'Iberville Warriors won the meet 171-165.

The Rocks took a four-point lead into the 1600m relay and placed second behind the Warriors. Even with the second place finish, this enabled the Rocks to win the title, or so it seemed. The Rocks were disqualified from the race due to a runner apparently receiving the baton before the exchange zone.

The call was protested for several minutes; however, the St. Martin track officials rendered the decision that the SSC runner took the baton before the exchange zones.

SSC coach Larry Ramsey, "I'm proud of my boys today. The ones who ran gave it their all. They knew what they had to do in order to dethrone the Warriors and they got after it and did it. It is a shame that the title was decided on a call like that." St. Stanislaus runners who qualified for the South State meet were Vince Moran, Clay Williams, Scott Black, Matt Tusa, Sonny Schindler and Eugene Schmitt.

Moran qualified with a first place finish in the high jump and a first place finish in the 110m high hurdles. Moran's high hurdle time of 15.36 seconds was a new meet record.

Williams also qualified for the South State meet in the high jump in a first place tie with Moran. Black won the 3200m run and the 800m run and qualified in both events.

Tusa placed second in the 3200m run and won the 1600m run and qualified in both events.

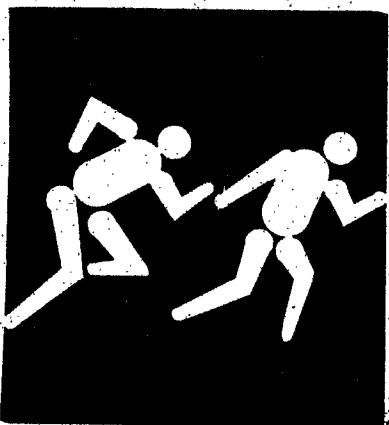

Schindler placed second in the pole vault and qualified for South State.

Schmitt won the 300m hurdles with a time of 43.21s and qualified for the South State meet.

Bay High qualified their 400m and 800m relay teams for the South State meet. Richard Benton qualified in the discus by placing second.

In girls action, the Lady Tigers of Bay High qualified many runners for competition at the next level.

Tylehana Jordan qualified for South State competition in the 100m low hurdles, the 100m dash, and the 200m dash. She finished second in all those races.

Belle Penrose qualified for South State by winning the 400m dash.

Chari Lee won the long jump for the Lady Tigers with a leap of 15'2" and qualified for South State.

Alicia Gavagnie won the high jump for the Lady Tigers and Penrose placed second. They both finished with a height of 4'10" but Penrose had more misses at the height. They both qualified for South State.

Bay High also qualified their 400m relay team, 800m relay team, and their 1600m relay team. The Lady Tigers won the 400m relay race while finishing second in the other two races.

Hancock's Amy Cuevas was the Hawks' only qualifier. She qualified in the 800m run which she won with a time 2:46.55.

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

It's time to go fishin' y'all. Well, here it is Friday morning, and the sun is just making its first look-see into what promises to be a glorious new day. Like the Turtle told y'all last week, the weekend was going to be devoted to fishing the Four Bayou area in the Louisiana Marsh.

For those folks who don't know what or where the Four Bayou area is, let me lay it on ya'. Four Bayou Pass is about seven miles south of Port Sulphur and about three or four miles east of Grand Isle, La.

Many years ago there were actually four bayous that joined together to empty into the Gulf of Mexico. Now it is mostly just the spot where portions of Barataria Bay empty into the Gulf of Mexico.

It seems this area has been particularly hard hit by coastal erosion. Places where there used to be land are now nothing but bays. Places where there used to be shoreline on the Gulf are now nothing but open water.

Four Bayou Pass got a big-time reputation several years ago as the number one spot along the entire Gulf Coast to catch humongous bull reds. I mean we are talking about the 40-pound and up variety of bull red. The really big guys.

The reputation is still justified as this area still produces some of the biggest bull reds that can be caught anywhere. They usually reach their peak abundance sometime around the month of August.

Most of the fishermen use fairly heavy rods and reels that contain at least 30-pound test line and up. Their terminal tackle is usually about three to six feet of coated steel leader material with a hook that looks something like a welding rod that has been shaped for use as a fish hook. A sinker of about one ounce usually completed the rig. Incidentally the favorite foods of the bull reds are supposed to be cut mullet or crabs.

I began this week's report by talking about how beautiful the day started out to be, looks like I got a little ahead of myself in talking about the reds. Let's go back to the dock for a moment.

The boat the Turtle got on to take the trip was located at the oyster unloading dock in Port Sulphur. Ya' see, the person who invited the Turtle to go on this fishing trip is a third generation professional oyster fisherman, so it is logical to expect that an oyster boat would be located at an oyster dock.

Now, it is natural to expect that a working boat might not be as plush as some of the later-model fishing rigs that ply the waters of the Mississippi Sound. That was not the case with the Katricia. This baby is the cat's meow. How does air conditioning, hot showers, six comfortable beds, a walk-in cooler, a gourmet cooking facility strike ya'? That is the approximately 90-foot-long Katricia. That ain't no ordinary boat.

The trip started out with Captain Ralph Pausina nosing the Katricia out of its slip and into the pipeline canal with the same ease you might expect of a 14-foot flat boat. We then proceeded down the pipeline canal till we came to the Rattlesnake Bayou entrance to a large bay that led past the old sulfur mine then to the four Bayou area.

Captain Pausina has a camp close to the entrance to the Four Bayou Pass. The camp is on an island that his family built over many years of culling oysters.

Once the boat docked, everybody set to work getting the major items off the boat, like the barley pop, easy chairs, barley pop, food, barley pop, barbecue pit, barley pop and so forth. Did I mention that the big boat was needed to haul the barley pop to the camp?

There were ten men on the trip with one addition. The addition joining us daily was a biologist from the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries. The biologist gave some new insights into the problems surrounding the decline in fisheries stocks along the Gulf Coast.

He attributes one major problem to the disappearance of so many acres of coastal marsh through erosion. If the fish have no place to breed, and the young fish have no place to hide, the populations have to decline.

Couple the decline in habitat with the ever increasing pressure on the fisheries from newer, more efficient gear, plus large increases in the numbers of fishermen, and a greater percentage of the resource is being harvested every day.

Meanwhile, back to the fishing. The red fish were not cooperative this trip. I have only two pictures of the reds that were caught.

Since the Turtle specializes in speckled trout, I gotta tell ya' this place is great. Twenty-five specks were brought home. They had a total weight of 82 pounds. Not bad. Many more were caught and returned to the water to get bigger.

Four Bayou Heaven

I was informed that the conditions were poor for trout fishing because the water was muddy. It seems the muddy water from the Mississippi River was blown into the area from several days of southeast winds. If these were poor conditions and the fishing was this good, you can only imagine what it must be like when the conditions are right.

This week's wonderful wise words: Fishing with a group of friends is as good as it gets. Captain Ralph, you are one lucky man, Turtle.

Hunter Education Student Classes yearly.

Interested persons who have not yet completed the basic student course, may still attend this instructor course, but will not be certified until the basic student course is successfully completed.

A Hunter Education Student Course is required for persons born on or after Jan. 1, 1972 before they can purchase a hunting license in Mississippi.

Hunter education courses are offered to hunters and non-hunters alike with the hope of developing students who are safe with firearms in the field and home; respectful of other people and property; law abiding; and aware of hunting as a management tool for wildlife resources.

Wildcats qualify for tournament

Pearl River Community College qualified for the National Region 23 Baseball Tournament Saturday by winning its last regular season game.

Both Pearl River and rival Jones split South Division doubleheaders Saturday, and as a result Pearl River is headed for post-season play for the sixth time since 1988.

Saturday in Poplarville, Pearl River, 21-23, lost 5-2 to Copiah-Lincoln in the first game before battling back to take the nightcap 7-4.

At the same time, Jones was winning its first game against East Central 8-0, but the Bobcats lost the second contest 3-2.

As a result, both teams finished regular-season play with identical 11-13 division records. Since Pearl River won three of four games against Jones this season, the Wildcats will advance to Region 23 Tournament at Meridian May 11-14.

"We don't have the good numbers this year, but we do have a good team," said Nightengale, who led the Wildcats to a third place finish in Region 23 last year and runnerup spot in the state.

"We have had 11 one-run games," said Nightengale. "The league has been extremely balanced this year and I feel good for my players that they have qualified."

Nightengale said his 1995 squad included a quality group of players. "They may not have the most victories or best stats but they are a great group of kids," said Nightengale. "They play as a team, they win and lose as a team."

At the mid-season point of the year, the Wildcats were in front in the division with a 9-4 mark. That was before Gulf Coast, the South champs took two from the Wildcats on Good Friday.

After that the Wildcats lost extra-inning games to Hinds and then two one-run setbacks to Southwest and a split with Jones last Thursday.

In the opener Saturday, Greg Boone (4-2) was the losing pitcher. Adam Breerwood had a single and a double for PRCC and Cody Guidry and John Bishop added two singles each.

Bert White (8-4) was the winning pitcher in the nightcap. Breerwood had a double, two singles and four RBIs, and Bryan Pierce socked a two-run double.

"I think we have as good a chance in Region 23 as anyone," said Nightengale. "We have been competitive all year. If we get our bats working there's no telling how far we can go."

Daniels likes what he sees in PRCC scrimmage

Pearl River Community College concluded spring football practice Thursday with a 90-minute controlled scrimmage.

Keith Daniels, PRCC's new head coach, said he was pleased with his team's progress.

"Several players made significant strides," said Daniels. "If the same players take the same approach this fall, we are going to be much better on both sides of the line."

Daniels admitted that his defense was definitely ahead of the offense.

"But I would be disappointed if that was not the case," he said. "We have size, speed and talent on defense. There are some really quality players on that side of the ball."

Tailback Kenshun Smith of Atlanta picked up 46 yards on six attempts, and quarterback Jerel Posey of Pell City, Ala., passed 65 yards to Michael Oatis of Columbia to lead the offense. Tight end Jason Cuculu of Oak Grove caught four passes for 44 yards.

"Oatis is an athletic kid who wants to do well," said Daniels.

Oatis, Scott Hall of Carriere and Tim Pittman of Columbia should give the Wildcats a solid receiving core.

Daniels said he was more concerned with his offense making mental mistakes.

"We missed assignments and had several penalties," he said. "That's what stops an offense."

Two players showing up this spring who impressed the coaching staff were offensive lineman and tight end Brent Gray of Picayune and inside linebacker Shannon Monroe of Thomasville, Ga.

Daniels said Monroe may be the best defensive player on the team.

The Wildcats' defensive secondary will have last year 6-5 quarterback Jarvis Lipscomb playing free safety. Lipscomb is from Columbus, Ga. Bassfield's Johnny Mickell was also impressive at defensive corner.

"Remember we have signed some freshmen who can play immediately," Daniels said. "At least I hope they (the freshmen) want to be more than just backups. The position competition is what we need. It's always better when you have someone pushing you."

Punter Kirk Myrick of Poplarville and kicker Antonio Carillo of Hancock received high praise from Daniels.

"I feel good about the kicking game," said Daniels. "Myrick is an excellent punter. As a two-step punter, a lot of senior colleges will be interested in his services."

Freshman Carillo kicked two field goals in the 30-yard plus range during the scrimmage.

Pass Christian angler nets $1,000 croaker

Chris Tomak of Pass Christian had no idea that when he went fishing Saturday, he would net a cool $1,000 along with the little croaker that bit his hook.

Tomak had entered the new Catch-N-Cash Spring Fishing Tournament just the night before and wound up catching a specially tagged croaker worth $1,000.

"I couldn't believe it for a while," he said. "I had gone to The Harbor Shop (a tackle shop located in the Gulfport Small Craft Harbor) to buy a fishing license Friday night. I saw the stuff on Catch-N-Cash and decided to enter. It was only $10 and, what the heck, I thought. I really didn't think I would ever catch one of those fish."

Catch-N-Cash is a new tournament format that is catching on fast along the Coast. Over 100 fish of nine species have been tagged and released in the tournament waters of Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana. If a person is pre-registered and catches one of these fish, he or she wins the tag value. Tag values range from a minimum of $1,000 to $50,000 for a specially tagged king mackerel.

Entry fee for the tournament is $10 and is good every time a person goes fishing through June 30 for the Spring Tournament. The Summer Tournament begins July 1 and runs through Sept. 30, and the entry fee will remain at $10.

T. J. Johnson, spokesperson for Catch-N-Cash, said fish had been released in most of the popular fishing spots along the Gulf Coast.

"We made sure that there were plenty of chances for people to win, so we released croakers and hardhead catfish — something most of us catch when we pier fish — speckled trout and redfish in the most popular spots in Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana," Johnson said.

Johnson said nearshore and offshore anglers also had plenty of chances to win. "Besides those fish, there are jack crevalle and bonito — popular fish for charter boats and offshore trollers — cobia (also called ling and lemonfish), red snapper and, of course, the $50,000 king," she said.

Entries can be obtained the following outlets:

Bay Marina, Bay St. Louis; Biloxi Rod and Tackle, Biloxi; Gorenflo's Tackle Shop, Biloxi; Ocean Springs Marine Mart, Ocean Springs; Roughwater Marine, Gautier; McLeod Marine, Pascagoula; Sports Unlimited, Gulfport; and The Harbor Shop, Gulfport.

STAR student honored

A senior at St. Stanislaus High School is one of the top STAR Students in Mississippi.

Patrick E. Cousins of Long Beach has been designated as an All-Star Scholar in the Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition (STAR) Program sponsored by the Mississippi Economic Council and its M. B. Swayze Foundation.

Over 300 Star Students were selected on the basis of academic excellence. Scores on the American College Test and scholastic averages were considered in designated Star Students.

Twenty All-Star Scholars were then selected from these Star Students. Each of the All-Star scholars scored at least 34 on the ACT this year, and — for the first time in the history of the program — two Star Students had perfect scores of 36 on the ACT.

Cousins was asked to choose a Star Teacher — the teacher who has made the greatest contribution to his scholastic achievement. Selected as Star Teacher was Michael G. Gemelli of Bay St. Louis.

The All-Star Scholars and Teachers were honored at the Mississippi Economic Council's Education Celebration at Mississippi College in Clinton. Scholarships were awarded to

Patrick Cousins

True love only comes once in a lifetime. One should cherish it, embrace it, protect and defend it. For it is more precious than gold, and more fragile than a butterfly. True love never takes, it only gives. Pride is it's worst enemy, truth and commitment it's best friends. True love gives one the power to dream; and to forgive. If only your soul were an open window, like rays of sunshine all the true love within me would pour through into your heart; and looking in I would see our future together, with the past forgotten. Only you will read this and know for certain it is for you. I love you more. Come to me my princess, my music cries. There's a place, far far away .....
